

Privacy Policy
IAAS, Inc.
January 2009

At IAAS, Inc. we respect your financial privacy. We recognize that you have provided us access to private personal financial information and want you to know our policy respecting that information.

We access personal financial information from the following sources:

- Information you have given us on investment advisory agreements, brokerage account applications and other documents completed in the course of establishing and maintaining accounts with us
- Information you have given us orally
- Information we receive or can access from third parties such as retirement and defined contribution plan account administrators, brokerage firms and insurance companies

We do not disclose any nonpublic personal information about you to anyone, except in the following circumstances:

- When we are required to execute transactions for your account or otherwise provide services you request
- When you have specifically authorized and directed us to do so, and
- When required by law, such as when our books and records are examined by federal or state regulators

We maintain physical and procedural safeguards within our offices to protect your privacy. Please feel free to call us if you have any concerns about our firm's privacy policy.
